Michael Selekane takes a hard look at South Africa's labour force with his new solo exhibition, Time and Space. The exhibition is both a celebration and a study of the everyday man, the people. Domestic workers, bricklayers and all those who built South Africa through physical labour. Selekane especially focuses his spotlight on the mining industry and the mine workers, softly framing their harsh reality in his signature minimalist style.

Michael Selekane is a visual artist from South Africa. He obtained his National Diploma in Fine and Applied Arts in 2012 and B- Tech in Fine and Applied Arts in 2014 at the Tshwane University of Technology.

Selekane has participated in several exhibitions nationally and internationally including the National Arts Festival (Grahamstown) in 2009 and 2010, a solo show at the Pretoria Art Museum in 2015, Constitutional Hill and Lizamore & Associates. Selekane has also exhibited at several art fairs including the FNB Joburg Art Fair and Turbine Art Fair.
